

The Individual in the Data Revolution: Empowerment and Responsibility

UNA MASTERCLASS
JAGIELLONIAN UNIVERSITY
KRAKÓW, 09 - 14.05.2022

Currently, all our activities generate data, and most of our decisions are driven, directly or indirectly, by data. In a few years, without asking for it, we became nodes in a worldwide network of consumers and producers of data. As individuals, never before have we had the power to connect to and influence everything around us, people and algorithms alike. We must however also acknowledge the responsibility that comes with this power.

In such a digitalized world built entirely on data, to understand the reach that data and algorithms now have in our lives is a new form of literacy. Which is fundamental to try to glimpse or even influence the role that data will play in our lives, and where we, as individuals, will be in its midst.

In this masterclass we will look at this ongoing technological revolution, understand how we got here, try to devise the potential futures, and discuss the role that each one of us plays towards deciding which of these futures becomes reality.
