

One Health Europe– Africa Summit on Veterinary Public Health & Food Safety (NEXTAFRICA)

Una Europa–Africa Seed Funding 2024

Abstract

Food safety and prevention of diseases in livestock are an integral part of food security and a significant public health issue and are central to achieving at least seven United Nations Sustainable Development Goals.

Africa is the world's worst region for food safety, accounting for 30% of global deaths associated with foodborne illnesses. The cost of unsafe food on low and middle income countries economies is equivalent of USD $110 bn.

We aim to organise a One Health Europe–Africa Summit on Veterinary Public Health & Food Safety at the University of Bologna to foster collaborations among young and experienced European and African researchers through a series of workshops to contribute to the strategic objectives of the Food Safety Strategy of Africa.

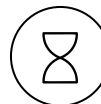

Project Coordinator
Alessandro Seguino
Alma mater studiorum - Università di Bologna
aalessandro.seguino@unibo.it

Mobility Fellowship Chairholder
Clovice Kankya
Makerere University
clokankya@gmail.com

Participating institutions
Alma mater studiorum - Università di Bologna
Makerere University
University College Dublin/An Coláiste
Ollscoile Baile Átha Cliath
Freie Universität Berlin
University of Edinburgh
Universidad Complutense de Madrid
Helsingin Yliopisto/Helsingfors universitet

Duration
September 2024 – August 2025

Budget
€36,000

