

Challenges to European Identities and Values in Digital Communities (CEIVINDICO)

Seed Funding

DIGITALIZED!

European Studies

Fuelled by researchers of multidisciplinary, multilingual and multicultural backgrounds, CEIVINDICO fosters a discussion around the socio-discursive dynamics of digital communities.

The project aims: 1) to explore the role of digital communities in the creation, reproduction and perpetuation of social discourses that pose challenges to gender equality, LGBTQ+ rights, an inclusive EU citizenship and climate change; 2) to investigate the impact of online multimodal discourse and communication within digital communities as the fabric of today's many challenges faced by the EU; 3) to examine how digital communities and digital communication foster individual and social alienation, prompted by the ecosystems created in online contexts that frequently rely on misinformation, fake news or unchecked facts.

Details

Third Parties: Harvard University · University of Massachusetts · University of Portsmouth · University of Málaga · Aston University · Institute of Oriental Studies at Jagiellonian University

Budget: € 10,970

Duration funding period: February 2022 - September 2022

Key contact

Alfonso Sánchez-Moya
Universidad Complutense de Madrid
asmoya@ucm.es

Partners involved

Helsingfors universitet
Universidad Complutense de Madrid
Uniwersytet Jagiellonski w Krakowie

ceivindico.

Website

 ceivindico