

Digitalized exclusion, public opinion, and the right to housing in Europe (Digital housing)

Seed Funding

DIGITALIZED!

European Studies

This project analyzes how the right for housing is influenced by digitalized exclusion and public opinion expressed in social media. Researchers will work together to prepare a research grant proposal for a COST Action, funded by the European Union. During the project funded by UNA-Europa, the following activities will be implemented: (1) A kick-off seminar; (2) A literature review, to make the research questions more precise; (3) A virtual seminar, to further develop the proposal in a disruptive way; (4) A final seminar, during which each team will lead a methodological workshop on: analysis of public opinion through social media; construction of hybrid governance and fieldwork with stakeholders; participative methods for the co-creation of knowledge and policies.
